A lively collision, with disastrous results for one of the teams concerned, took place at the corner of North Main and Washington streets yesterday afternoon. An Italian whose name is not known was driving down Washington street in a rig belonging to James Lawson of Websterville, when he ran into an outfit driven by Miss Recor of East Barre, the force of the blow knocking his carriage to one side. It caught in the car tracks and was overturned, and he was thrown to the pavement. The horse ran down North Main street to the building occupied by Rugg's auction room, where he was caught. The horse cleared himself from the wagon in the course of his run, marking the path by fragments strewn along the way. The man was uninjured and the horse but slightly scratched, while the wagon was almost a total wreck.
